

A conversation with our juror, Michael Piechocinski

Michael Piechocinski received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from Northern Michigan University. He is an adjunct professor of art at Montgomery College, Germantown, Maryland. He has also been an adjunct professor of art at the Corcoran College of Art in Washington, D.C., a College Board consultant to the District of Columbia, a reader for the AP Studio Art Exams, and Co-Director of the Montgomery County Visual Art Center. In addition, he has served as a Cultural Affairs Consultant for the United States Department of State in Embassies in Eritrea, Ecuador, and Venezuela.

Awards and recognition include: a National Endowment for the Humanities grant, the Robert Rauschenberg "Power of Art Award," The Maryland Governor's Arts Educator Award, a U.S. Department of Education Presidential Scholar Teacher's Award, and the National Foundation for the Advancement of the Arts Distinguished Teacher award.

He has had numerous exhibitions of his paintings in the U.S., Africa, and South America and is known for his color field landscapes, wet plate photography, and collage.

In addition to his work as a contemporary artist, he has also produced a significant body of work in the traditional techniques of Byzantine style Iconography. His work in the writing of Icons can be found in several Eastern Orthodox Churches and private collections in the United States, Africa, and Europe. He has also done field research in Eritrea and Ethiopia and published articles on "The Iconography of Ethiopia" and "The 1990 Dumbarton Oaks Byzantine Symposium on the Holy Image".

Award Descriptions:

1. The Art League Award – Best in Show: Alina Tolkacheva, Emergence

This black and white gesso worked over the wonderfully neutral yet textured base of the mounted banana provide an ideal base for the artist's bold figure study. The proportions of the figure and the strong chiaroscuro all work together to transcend the notion of the typical observed figure study into a strong visual presentation.

2. John Foreman Life and Figure Award: Hana Horstkamp, A Muse

"A Muse" is a delightful composition that suggests a strong foundation in classical rendering techniques as well as the artist's concern movement and rhythm within the rendering of the model.

3. Dee Gee Watling Memorial Award: Valentina DiMilo, Olivia

An engaging presentation of the portrait subject that both defines the subject and provides a means for invention of color and variety of line. The work shows a strong sensitivity to the function of the toned ground as it interacts with the overlying layers of dancing color.

4. The Dennis Davis Award for Excellence in Ceramics: Jean Orr, Raku Vessel

The artist in this piece shows a strong concern toward mastery of the classical ceramic form and technique. The work has a well-developed sense of neck, shoulder, belly, and foot as well as a precisely fitting lid that echoes the flow of the form as it presents a subtle contrast from the turquoise blue to an iron gray red. The final note of the lower glaze on top of the handle and the slight reduction mottling of the raku technique makes for a balanced and visually pleasing form.

5. The Potomac Valley Watercolorists' Carolyn Grosse: Charlie Dwyer, Grandpa's Breakfast

This watercolor piece presented a strong graphic and harmonious impact from across the room. The subject matter evoked a personal moment of observation of an everyday subject further interpreted through the exploration of the watercolor medium. The artist also within the composition, embarked on an exploration of pattern and layering that moved the work toward a strong sense of design and abstraction.

6. Jennie Lea Knight Creativity Award: Pam Gregory, Fractured Fairytale Imp

The mixed media piece showed a concern for creative use of disparate materials by means of assemblage, collage, drawing, and more than one method of binding the parts together. The work along with the title suggests a narrative content that makes the viewer want to see more of such work from this artist. The composition and specific placement of the parts are held together by the delicate use of neutrals, which directs the eye through the work to the primary visual elements.
